Multiple Kick Violates the Spirit of Playing Code, Solons Declare important changes in the playing rules at the annual meeting at the Hotel Biltmore yesterday. No radical changes were made, but several correct tive measures were adopted.

The penalty for illegal interference with a man receiving a forward pass will be imposed at the point at which the foul is committed. Heretofore this same offence called for a penalty of fifteen yards, to be measured from the point at which the ball was put in play. The committee also ruled that except in incompleted forward passes, where the side making the pass is penalized a down and the ball called back, all penalties on forward passes may be declined.

A change was made in Section 2 of Rule 23, governing the running into, or roughing of a kicker. Formerly a team was penaltized fifteen yards if a man ran into the punter. The committee deof disqualification and loss of yards will stand. The penalty imposed in each instance from at at which the ball was put in but no action was taken on the much mooted question of cutting men down from behind. George Foster Sanford urged that it be legislated out of football. He aptly termed it as a kneewrenching, ankle-breaking, face-smashing play, that added nothing to the science of football and much to the brutal side of the game.

Penslizing interference with a man receiving a forward pass will be hailed by football enthusiasts. Instances have been called to the attention of the rules committee time and again where been called to the attention of the rules committee time and again where teams deliberately picked off a man about to catch a pass, preferring to lose fifteen yards on the penalty, where allowing the play to be completed would have entailed a loss of twice that distance, and in some instances a touchdown. Giving the offended side possession of the ball at the point at which the foul occurred will do much to wipe out this practice.
